Ellington Volunteers Go for the Gold

Teams from Ellington Volunteer Ambulance Corps (EVAC) and Ellington Rescue Post 512 competed in the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Olympics recently at the 9th Annual EMS Conference in Cromwell. The Olympic Teams were judged on how well they respond to a simulated 911 call. The Gold Medal was awarded to EVAC.

Team members included Terry Schook, Cindy Rivard, Carrie Caron and John Streiber. Silver went to the Somers Volunteer Ambulance. The Bronze Medal was awarded to the Ellington Rescue Post. Team members included Ashley Hulstein, Casey Chubka, Jessica Schillinger, Drew Shaw). The Conference is a great opportunity to learn, see new products, test ourselves and have fun. We will be back next year to defend our championship.

For those of you that don't know, Ellington is saying goodbye to two of its genuine stars. The High School Principal Eileen Kouba and Vice-Principal Jack Leonard are retiring at the end of this school year. I met Eileen and Jack four years ago during the design stage of the High School reconstruction project. It is not news to anyone that this building was under siege for over two years. Through it all, they have been models of resourcefulness, patience and perseverance. Their good humor and the ability to respond and react to a fluid situation is a rare quality. They have exemplified Hemingway's definition of Courage as grace under fire. Without their leadership skills, that project would have been more difficult.

But they weren't hired to manage building construction. They were here to manage the construction of beautiful minds. They have had a success rate that is the envy of their peers. Dr. Kouba has presided over thirteen graduation ceremonies, one full cycle from kindergarten to senior class. Over two thousands of our sons and daughters have passed from child to adult on their watch. They have guided this ship together and they leave together. So if you see them at a sporting event or on the street, take a moment to thank them on their contribution to your lives and the lives of hundreds of Ellington families. Next year, we will load the breech anew but although we will fill the chamber we may never match the caliber of these mighty rounds.

AUTOMATED TRASH COLLECTION

The Town of Ellington is considering converting the trash pick up to an automated system in which each resident would receive a 90-gallon roll out cart. This cart would eliminate unsightly roadsides created by trash cans and loose plastic bags that trash is presently contained in. The worry of animals getting into the trash at night is eliminated. The streets would have a better appearance and it creates faster, cleaner collection service. The carts would be owned by the Town for maintenance and replacements. An extra cart could be purchased by residents for $50.00. The Town would like residents' input on this change. We would like to hear your thoughts.

Phone the Public Works Dept at 870-3140 or e-mail us at publicworks@ellington-ct.gov.

If enough positive responses are received showing that residents are interested in switching to the new system, we could possibly get it started by November 1, 2005. Your monthly rate for automated curbside collection would be $13.61/month plus another $1.41/month for the container cost. Thank you for your input.

ART IN THE LIBRARY

I'm sure many of you have had your day brightened by the artwork sometimes displayed in the library. Over the last few years, the library has hosted several art exhibits, including the annual student exhibit and several by local artists. As these displays have proven popular, the Library Board has decided to actively encourage such exhibits and has taken measures to turn the main hallway area into gallery space. Through the generosity of the Friends of the Library, the newly painted walls now feature an art hanging system made up of a series of moldings and rods. This system will allow easy hanging of artwork of all kinds without putting nails in the walls. Several exhibits have already been scheduled for the coming year, including: April—Ellington High School Art Students; May—Tolland County Art Association 30th Anniversary Exhibit; June—Ellington resident Edward Suchecki; October—Manchester Art Association; and, November—Tolland resident Art Scholz. Exhibits generally hang for one month. If you are interested in displaying your artwork, please stop by the library for a copy of the guidelines and a registration form. Or call 870-3160 or email hallmlib@biblio.org

DO YOU LOVE YOUR LIBRARY?

As you all know, the cuts to the FY 2004-05 budget have seriously affected the library, specifically library collections and programs. Funds for new videos and DVDs, CDs and books were cut back to FY1999 levels. In an effort to raise some funds for new materials the Friends of the Library are running a “Love Your Library” campaign. Patrons are encouraged to donate $1.00 or more and fill out a heart-shaped form with their name and a note. The hearts are decorating the front windows.

SHOP FOR BOOKS, SUPPORT YOUR LIBRARY

Do you shop for books at Amazon.com? If so, you can make a painless donation to the library. Simply begin at the library homepage, www.biblio.org/ellington/hall.htm, click on the “Shop for Books” to get to Amazon, and Amazon will make a donation of 5% of the amount you spend.

Creative Movement: Tots from 3-5 (Potty trained). "The Jolly Froggers Ahoy me Hardys!" Come join the crew of the Jolly Froggers and discover a treasure chest full of fun and frolic. We'll sail the "high Cs" in song and dance. We'll meet all sorts of critters and characters during art and creative story time. So come down and set sail on a journey of discovery.

Pottery Kreations: Talent is NOT required to take part in the fun-filled world of "paint-your-own" pottery, just the willingness and interest to help create original gifts for friends and relatives for holidays, birthdays, weddings, and special occasions. Pottery Kreations is an Ellington-based business under the guidance of Angel Buscemi, who has patterned her projects around the "bisqueware" concept, choosing from such items as tableware, picture frames and home and holiday decorations. More information can be found at the Kreations website: www.potterykreations.com.

Classes are slated to be held for children and adults alike on Tuesday afternoons and early evenings. Pre-registration is required on the Monday morning prior to each Tuesday's class. A pricelist will be made available to those complete a registration form at the Recreation Office. You can pick in advance the type of pottery you would like to design. Once the bisqueware has been painted (by the student), it will be glazed, fired, and be made available for pickup at the Recreation Office one week later.
